Pathways Beyond the Professoriate (PBP): PhDs as Medical Science Liaisons

For this edition of Pathways Beyond the Professoriate, a fabulous team of graduate students, Taran Lundgren, Carolina Montanez, and Lynnea Harris, have partnered with the Laney Graduate School to bring you a panel on careers as a Medical Science Liaison! We invite those who are interested in career options outside the academy to register for this event to learn about the ways you can leverage your graduate training to pursue one of the fastest-growing careers in the biomedical field.

Date: February 18, 2020 ♦ Time: 4pm – 6pm ♦ Location: Cox Hall Ballrooms (3rd Floor)

Strengths-Based Interviewing

On the job market? This 3-hour workshop is designed to help you talk to potential employers about why they should hire YOU and not the competition. This workshop goes deeper than traditional interview workshops and empowers you with language to talk about your unique strengths, based on Gallup’s CliftonStrengths assessment. You’ll leave this fun and interactive workshop feeling more confident in talking about your strengths and with clear talking points for your next interview.

Date: February 20, 2020 ♦ Time: 9am – 12pm ♦ Location: CNR (Claudia Nance Rollins, School of Public Health), Room 1034

PhD & Master’s Virtual Career Expo

This virtual career fair is hosted by the Graduate Career Consortium and CareerEco. Diverse employers interested in hiring candidates with advanced degrees are invited to speak in real-time chat sessions with Emory Master’s students, PhDs, and Postdocs.

Date: February 26, 2020 ♦ Time: 9am – 7pm ♦ Location: Online

Fulbright Forum

The Fulbright Forum discusses the ins and outs of the Fulbright student program for graduate students. Topics to be discussed include the specific character of a successful Fulbright grant narrative, the personal statement, language evaluations, and affiliations, with plenty of time for questions and answers.

Date: February 26, 2020 ♦ Time: 4pm – 5:30pm ♦ Location: Callaway S420

Developing Career Resilience

Resilience is a life enhancing skill that we can all develop. In Career Planning we can develop strategies for both adapting to a changing workforce and market demands, as well as developing personal resilience by learning strategies to deal with setbacks and challenges as they arise.

Date: March 3, 2020 ♦ Time: 2pm – 4pm ♦ Location: CNR (Claudia Nance Rollins, School of Public Health), Room 3001
